WORK EXPERIENCES

- Job Title I

The short description of your team, company, especially when your company was a local company or not as known as Google, then you definitely want the recruiters to know about it.

- This is the top list, you can use it to describe your main role
    - Detail 1: I wrote code.
    - Detail 2: I created bugs.
    - Detail 3: I fixed bugs I created.
    - Detail 4: Then I wrote more code and bugs.
    - Detail 5: Shit, I forgot to write the tests. (this is not something you want them to know tho lol)
    - Hits: When the detail is not as long, you should include `class="indent-right"` in the scope of `li`.

- Job Title II

More descriptions ...

- You do wanna EMPHASIZE the achievements you've done during the work term, such as :
    - How MANY projects you were involved and what kind.
    - How MUCH MORE PERCENTAGE of sales you've made.
    - How MANY BEERS you've had during work time (don't get me wrong, we work hard and only drink on Fridays).

OTHER EXPERIENCE

- Part Job At Tim Hotons

Honestly, Mcdonald's coffee is way better than Tims this year.

- Hmmmmm, let me see... I made ... coffee?
  - Keep your other experience some how related to your job, or some how it could assisted your soft skills.
  - Not saying working at Tims is not cool, but wouldn't more profession-related experience be better?
  - Such as Lab member, computer club member, or maybe volunteers experience.

EDUCATION

- Bachelor of Computer Science at University of Somewhere

- GPA: 4.5/4.5 (If your GPA is high enough to show, then do it, if not, maybe just try to hide it, maybe...?)
  - If you know when are you going to graduate or you are already graduated, great, write it down.
  - If you have no idea how many more "wonderful" school years you have left, I'll say put Present is also fine.
